

2018 Northern Narratives Rules, Guidelines, and Information

The Fargo Public Library is excited to announce that its regional writing project Northern Narratives is moving into its second year! The FPL is calling for submissions to be included in the new volume, from now until March 4, 2018. Northern Narratives is looking for original written work by authors from the region.

If you're interested in submitting your work to Northern Narratives, thank you! Please read the rules and information thoroughly before sending us anything, as not adhering to the guidelines may disqualify you. If you have any further questions or concerns that are not answered below, you can reach Northern Narratives by emailing NorthernNarratives@fargolibrary.org

The Rules

- The submissions are open to any North Dakota resident or resident of the Fargo Public Library's reciprocal service area in the Lake Agassiz Regional Library System. Reciprocal Minnesota counties include Polk, Clearwater, Norman, Mahnomen, Clay, Becker, and Wilkin. Citizens of Rothsay are also eligible as part of the LARL System.
- All entries must be uploaded as a Word document (.doc or .docx) to WuFoo <https://fargolibrary.wufoo.com/forms/northern-narratives-2018/> by March 4, 2018.
- Materials submitted to Northern Narratives may not be submitted to any other publication until after selections are announced.
- Authors may submit no more than one piece of fiction, one essay (one piece of nonfiction), and two poems. For details on submission categories, see below.
- Submitted work must be original and previously unpublished, either in print or online. Work written in a personal journal and/or blog is still acceptable.
- All submissions must be edited and ready to print. Selections will not be edited by staff. Unedited works will be disqualified from the judging process.
- Pages should be numbered.
- Our skies are big but our world is small, so please do not include any personal or identifying information in the body of your submission. Our judges cannot know whose works they're reading in order to make objective decisions. For example, a creative nonfiction piece describing all the members of your family would be disqualified.

Submission Categories

- Fiction
 - A fictional short story with a fully developed theme 2,000 to 6,000 words long.
 - Submitted stories must be complete. Chapters or excerpts from novels are not acceptable.
 - An author may only submit one piece of fiction.

- Essays /Nonfiction
 - Either 1) a piece of creative nonfiction that is a short story describing a real event, or 2) an essay or commentary on a particular subject that is of local or regional interest.
 - A nonfiction submission must be 1,000 to 2,000 words long.
 - An author may only submit one essay/piece of nonfiction.

- Poetry
 - Poems must be 750 words or less each.
 - Almost anything goes. Please be aware that concrete poetry will have to fit the journal template.
 - An author may only submit two poems.

FAQS

Q. What is Northern Narratives?

A. Northern Narratives is a book published by the Fargo Public Library to highlight and preserve the writing of local and regional authors. This project aims to promote the sharing of our stories and the creation of content that is meaningful to our community.

Q. How will submissions be selected for publication?

A. There will be a juried selection for inclusion in the volume. Submissions will be judged by a selection committee on voice, style, cohesiveness, and ability to engage readers. The selection committee reserves the right to withhold publication at their discretion.

Q. What is the deadline for submissions?

A. All submissions must be received by March 4, 2018.

Q. How should submissions be made?

A. Submissions must be uploaded to WuFoo
<https://fargolibrary.wufoo.com/forms/northern-narratives-2018/> as a Word document

(.doc or .docx). Fiction, essays/nonfiction, and poetry should be submitted separately. Each work must be fully edited. Please read the rules thoroughly before submitting to avoid disqualification.

Q. When will I know if my story, essay, or poem has been chosen to be included?

A. Authors will be notified by the end of April.

Q. If published, who owns the copyright to my work?

A. After selected works are announced, all rights revert to the author. Materials may be submitted to other publishers at that time.

Selected submissions will be subject to “first rights” copyright. Any future publication will require the attribution: “First published in Northern Narratives – Fargo Public Library.”

Q. Will I get a royalty check if my work is published?

A. No. The Fargo Public Library is a non-profit organization and will not make any money off the sale of Northern Narratives. Likewise, the Friends of the Fargo Public Library will not make a profit as the books will be sold at cost.

Q. How will Northern Narratives be distributed?

A full pdf of the journal can be found online for free once printing is completed. In addition, bound copies of the 2018 Northern Narratives project can be purchased through the Friends of the Fargo Public Library.

Authors published in the journal will be gifted a free bound copy of Northern Narratives 2018 at the Northern Narratives 2018 Author Celebration Event. The NN 2018 Author Celebration Event date will be announced in the spring.

There will also be bound copies of Northern Narratives entered into the Fargo Public Library’s North Dakota Collection, which library patrons can borrow.
