Conversion of Existing 90 Minute Parking on First Avenue South from 4th Street to 8th Street to Two Hour Parking Approved:

The Board received a communication from Planner Joe Nigg stating in May the Parking Commission directed staff to work with the newly established Downtown Parking Task Force to analyze a request to convert the existing 90 minute parking on First Avenue South between 4th Street and Broadway from a 90 minute zone to a 2 hour zone. He said the Parking Commission felt it beneficial to consider adjacent parking zones and usage, in addition to other dynamics. According to the on-street occupancy data outlined within the 2012 Parking Evaluation Study, he said, peak hour

(11 a.m.) occupancy on this block is 37 percent. For comparison purposes, Broadway has an on-street occupancy rate of 76 percent, he said, and the entire downtown core is at approximately 54 percent usage during peak hours. He said the 2012 study documents this block as having a parking surplus largely due to the public ramp on this block. At the August 19, 2013 Task Force meeting, he said, a recommendation was set forth to convert all existing 90 minute parking on both the north and south side of First Avenue from 4th Street to 8th Street to two hour parking. The Parking Commission supported this proposed revision and at their August 31, 2013 meeting recommended approval of the change. He said this change aligns the time zones more closely with the enforcement schedules/routes, creates more consistency on these blocks and should encourage increased use of the on-street spaces, as well as addressing the YMCA's concerns regarding the adjacent on-street time zones.

Commissioner Williams moved the conversion of all existing 90 minute parking on both the north and south side of First Avenue South from 4th Street to 8th Street to two hour parking be approved.

Communication Regarding the Board of Adjustment Received and Filed:

The Board received a communication from Board of Adjustment Chair Dr. Kenneth Lepper stating recent decisions made by the Board of Adjustment (BOA) for variances to the Land Development Code (LDC) have been overturned by the City Commission. He said the intended function of the Board of Adjustment is to hear requests from citizens or organizations who would like to undertake projects not in compliance with the LDC. The panel of five volunteer citizens is well suited to evaluate the potential effect of projects, he said, and if the Board of Adjustment rejects a request for a variance, the requestor has the right to appeal the decision to the City Commission. Over the past two to three years, the BOA has rejected several requests for three stall garages in the City's heritage neighborhoods, he said, and at least two requests to destroy vintage homes and replace them with other construction. These are very contentious issues for neighborhood citizens, he said, and the LDC does not adequately address these problems. The City Commission has overturned most of these decisions made by the BOA, he said, which in effect circumvents the purpose of the Board and renders the volunteer service non-productive. He suggested the BOA be dissolved and the Planning Department staff revise the LDC such that all requests for variances be taken directly to the City Commission. If the Commission feels the BOA does have a function, and the BOA volunteers can serve the City, he said, an option would be that the Commission work to uphold the decisions of the BOA involving heritage neighborhoods, particularly when requests for variances involve three stall garages and the destruction of vintage homes.

Commissioner Mahoney said the Board of Adjustment does a great job and he would not be in favor of dissolving the Board. He said the City Commission values the work and guidance of the BOA and he asked that Mr. Lepper reconsider his request.

Mayor Walaker said the BOA does a great job and he would not be in favor of dissolving the Board. He said in the future it may be helpful to get more information from the BOA on controversial issues.

Commissioner Wimmer moved the communication from Dr. Kenneth Lepper regarding the Board of Adjustment be received and filed.

Recommendation to Establish a Single Management Model for the Gladys Ray Emergency Homeless Shelter and the Detox Center Approved:

The Board received a communication from City Administrator Pat Zavoral stating for the past four years the City's Detox Center and the Gladys Ray Emergency Homeless Shelter have operated within the same facility at 1st Avenue South and 15th Street under separate management arrangements. Detox staff, he said, is employed by Centre, Inc., a non-profit agency, while the emergency shelter staff has employment contracts directly with the City. Since 2012, he said, an ad hoc city staff group made up of Police Chief Keith Ternes, Public Health Director Ruth Bachmeier, Community Development Administrator Dan Mahli, and himself have been meeting with various stakeholders to determine if there is a better management or program model to address the issues these two services encounter. Homelessness, mental health and alcohol related illnesses appear to be on the rise for some of the less fortunate in the community, he said, and the City is seeing a revolving door for these services by some people who cannot seem to break the cycle. The ad hoc committee, he said, has concluded that some changes to the current Shelter/Detox model are necessary and the start would be to have a single point of management for this facility. He said the Committee is recommending that the current Shelter Administrator be the manager for the facility and programs, and all of the employees for these programs become City employees and the Shelter/Detox facility and staff become part of the Public Health portfolio of services offered to the community. From this model, he said, it is envisioned that clients in need of these services will receive assistance from staff in how to access local, state and federal support for their problems. He said this referral concept will hopefully reduce the number of times a person needs emergency shelter or detoxification support. In addition, he said, it is hoped that the revenue for these services will increase through development of a rate structure for those using the services. Currently, he said, the City of Fargo has the only Shelter/Detox facility in the metro area and this region of the state and other communities and counties in the area (sometimes the state) bring or send their clients to Fargo without paying for this service. The next step for the City, he said, is to accept the recommendations of the committee and if it is accepted, the changes would take place on January 1, 2014, the start of the City's fiscal year. He said given the current level of funding for these services, it will not be necessary to adjust the budgets for 2014 as presented in the Mayor's budget.

Director of Public Health Ruth Bachmeier said mental health issues, alcoholism and drug use are huge issues in the community. She said many detox facilities are seeing a reoccurrence from individuals who are not able to or equipped with the tools to make significant changes in their lives. For chronic long-term addicts, she said, the City needs to be able to reach those individuals and as a community, the issues of drugs, mental health and alcoholism need to be addressed. She said putting these programs under the Health Department umbrella is the first step in taking a larger, community-wide look at the ever increasing problem of mental health and drug dependency issues. In order for the community to get to the root of the issues, more needs to be offered, she said.

Chief of Police Keith Ternes said what has been a significant concern of his and within the police department is the number of admissions into the Detox Center. He said a large number of the people being admitted into the facility need the service on a continual basis. He said from an effectiveness and efficiency standpoint, it makes a lot of sense to combine these services so as to stabilize, if not minimize, the number of admissions. He said there is a lot of room for improvement in terms of how the City attempts to handle this situation; however, this is the first step in stopping the constant revolving door.

Jan Eliassen, Gladys Ray Shelter, said when individuals come to the shelter, the number one focus of staff is to make a relationship with the individuals because without that connection, the shelter employees cannot make the connection to local services that the shelter hopes to make. She said what she has found is the majority of the folks who come to the shelter, even those that are chronic in terms of addiction and mental health, are able to connect to services and quite often that results in housing and improved situations. Some of the folks that they deal with, she said, are so incredibly chronic that they need to stabilize them for a longer period of time than what is currently being offered. She said it is really difficult to connect people to services if they are still experiencing some of the physical challenges related to withdrawal. She said this is not a medical detox; however, it can provide an improved possibility for an individual to connect to the necessary services.

At 6:00 p.m., the time advertised for public hearings, the Board deferred additional discussion on this item until after the hearings.
