Fargo Police Zero in on Business Robberies Law enforcement strategize to solve and prevent crime

Over the past several months, a number of commercial business robberies have taken place in our community which is something we don't experience very often.

Residents, business owners, and the Fargo Police are concerned and that's why it's important for you to know what we are doing to solve these crimes and prevent more in the future.

Solving Recent Robberies

Since January 2011, there have been 21 commercial business robberies in Fargo. Of those, 11 have been solved by the Fargo Police Department. Suspects have either been arrested or formal charges have been filed against them. Specialists from our department continue to diligently investigate the 10 incidents remaining to be solved. To do this, investigators are networking with residents and business owners, studying surveillance video and working closely with other area law enforcement, and in some cases the FBI. The Fargo Police Department has a proven record of successfully solving robberies at a rate 20% higher than the national average, and we are confident in our ability to solve recent local robberies. Read more about crime statistics on page 4.

Preventing Crime

Simply resolving these crimes is not our only mission. It is important for us to find ways to prevent robberies from happening in the first place. That's why we're currently working with the owners and employees of convenience stores, hotels, and other businesses that may be susceptible, to help make their businesses undesirable targets. Uniformed patrol officers are conducting security assessments at these businesses and providing owners with prevention information and other tools designed to keep their business, and more importantly, their employees safe. Simple prevention techniques such as bright outdoor lights, high-quality security cameras, large see through store fronts, multiple employees on duty, and limited cash on hand can be powerful deterrents. Officers have also greatly increased their presence in and around these businesses to prevent robberies. In addition, the Fargo Police Department is analyzing data and compiling other information designed to help us deploy police officers and resources to areas of the city most vulnerable to crimes such as robbery.

Committed to a safe community

Rest assured, the Fargo Police Department is committed to working closely with business owners to combat this recent spate of robberies. We'll continue to do whatever we can to keep Fargo free from this and other types of crime, and retain the level of safety we're accustomed to. Working together gives us the best opportunity to keep Fargo the great community in which we live.

Little Snow = Big Savings

With the lack of snow and unseasonably warm temperatures this winter, you may be wondering how much the city is saving by not having to plow snow or manage icy roads. Much of the savings won't be reaped until next winter, but so far the numbers are looking good. To prepare for the 2011-2012 snow season, approximately 8,000 tons of sand/salt was purchased, mixed and stored away. We typically use a total of 13,000 tons per winter, but so far this winter we have only used 2,000 tons. We will store the extra and use it next season. Public Works has also experienced considerable cost savings in the areas of staff overtime, seasonal employment and fuel usage.

January	This year	Average year
Staff overtime costs	$14,378	$88,129
Part-time staff costs	$3,424	$8,970
Fuel costs	$34,190	$99,430

The numbers in the table above represent a cost savings of almost $145,000, in January alone. However, winter isn't over yet and we could see a burst of snow that could extend winter into March and even April. With city budgets operating on a calendar year, Public Works is not heading to the bank quite yet. If we experience an early winter in the fall of 2012, all of our encumbered savings associated with this mild January could easily be spent battling the next snow season.

From the Firehouse

With Fire Marshal Norm Scott

No Smoke Detector - No Protection

Smoke detectors just sit there, looking down from the ceiling, waiting to warn you if there is a sign of smoke or fire. There have been times that the detectors were noticed because of their loud alert sound. But that was from burning the toast again, so we disconnect the detector. We don't want that happening again!

Will smoke wake you up?

Now the detector just sits there, unable to sound the alarm if something were to happen. We forgot that we took the battery out of the detector and now we are unprotected from what may occur when we least expect it. Some people have said, "If I smell smoke, I will wake up" or "My pet will wake me up". Only they may never wake up because one of the first things lost when going to sleep is the sense of smell.

"functioning smoke detectors can cut the risk in half of someone dying in a home fire"

Smoke detectors are cheap insurance

Smoke detectors are about the cheapest insurance you can buy, usually $20 or less. Some detectors even have a built-in carbon monoxide detector. The life expectancy of a smoke detector is about ten years. To increase your life expectancy, have them replaced. Did you know protecting yourself with functioning smoke detectors can cut the risk in half of someone dying in a home fire? So, get out there and buy one. No, wait - buy several. Put one in every bedroom and outside every sleeping area. Now that you have the detectors installed and working, let's keep them working. Test them on a monthly basis and change the battery on an annual basis even if you think the battery is still good.

Getting out alive

Okay, so now you are safe, right? Not so fast, if the alarm goes off how are you going to get out of the house? Make sure you have two ways out. One way can be a window. Hot air and smoke rise toward the ceiling, so crawl if you have to. The best air is next to the floor. Once out, never go back in for anything. You are now safe at your meeting place. Call 9-1-1 and report your emergency. If you do not have a cell phone with you, try calling from a neighbor's house.

As you are waiting for the emergency vehicles to get to your house you can think to yourself, "Those detectors did a good job. Maybe I will give them each a fresh battery."

Domestic Violence...

It's Everyone's Business

Fargo Police are out to spread the word: "Domestic Violence... It's Everyone's Business". Fargo Police, Prairie St. John's and the Rape and Abuse Crisis Center are teaming up in an important campaign calling attention to domestic violence as an issue that is not to be considered "someone else's business". This public awareness campaign, which you will see on TV, in print, and hear on the radio, encourages all members of our community to acknowledge the problem and participate in a solution. The ads feature residents of Fargo, including a teacher, pastor, child, police officers and a senior citizen, representing the many walks of life which can be affected by domestic violence. You can view the ads on the Fargo Police website www.fargopolice.com.

Domestic violence detective

In 2011, Fargo Police Detective Chris Nichtern was assigned as the new Domestic Violence Detective. His responsibilities include reviewing and investigating domestic violence cases, serving as a liaison to agencies such as YWCA and Rape and Abuse Crisis Center, and identifying habitual victims and victimizers in an effort to find long term solutions.

Training

The Fargo Police Department recently hosted a two-day course "Domestic Violence Intervention and Investigation" which featured Mark Wynn. Wynn is a national trainer for law enforcement, those in the judicial system and victim advocates.

The Fargo community can make this vision a reality, but only if we all work together, do not keep domestic violence "behind closed doors" and remember, "Domestic Violence...It's Everyone's Business".

National Public Health Week April 2 - 6

During National Public Health Week, April 2-6, five very important aspects of health will be highlighted; Eating and living well, avoiding drugs and tobacco, preventing communicable diseases, reproductive and sexual health, and mental and emotional well being. On a local level, Fargo Cass Public Health (FCPH) actively promotes these lifestyle choices by providing a wide variety of programs and services available to residents.

Active Living and Healthy Eating

FCPH promotes Walk This Way, Let's Eat Local, Metro in Motion, the Cass-Clay Healthy People Initiative, and Streets Alive; all of which encourage ways to incorporate exercise and healthy eating into the community. The Women, Infants and Children Program provides services to encourage healthy eating for women and children from pregnancy up to five years of age.

Living Tobacco and Drug-Free, and Preventing Alcohol Abuse

FCPH offers tobacco education, tobacco cessation services; and promotes North Dakota Tobacco QuitNet and Quitline.

Prescription Drugs: Lock Them Up!

Prescription drugs stored in a medicine drawer or cabinet are safe, right? Not necessarily. It might surprise you to know that many prescription drugs enter the illegal drug market by way of theft from a lawful patient. The person stealing the drugs is often a friend or relative of the person who was prescribed the medication. It's easy for theft to go unnoticed because the suspect may only take a few pills from the bottle, leaving the remainder in place. The abuse of prescription drugs is extremely dangerous and can lead to addictions that cause the user to seek out other street drugs once pills are not available. Opiate pill addicts, for example, have been known to turn to heroin which has a high danger of overdose and death.

What can you do?

Keep your prescriptions locked up and accounted for. If you are no longer using a prescription, there is a prescription disposal drop box in the lobby of the Fargo Police Department at 222 4th St. N., Fargo. You can bring your prescriptions in Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. To provide a tip regarding illegal drug use contact the Fargo Police Narcotics Unit at 701-241-1415.

Preventing Communicable Diseases

The Environmental Health Division of FCPH conducts routine health inspections to help prevent communicable diseases. FCPH immunization programs include: childhood, influenza, international travel, human papillomavirus, and hepatitis A and B.

Reproductive and Sexual Health

The Family Planning Clinic at FCPH offers screenings and educates clients on reproductive health, birth control options, and the risk of sexually transmitted diseases. Confidential STD/HIV testing and treatment is available.

Mental and Emotional Well Being

FCPH nurses conduct a variety of vital services throughout our community including: school health screenings, public health nursing home visits for adult clients, assisting and educating new parents through maternal child health home visits, immunizations, and mental health assessments for the Cass County Jail.

For more information on these services, call 241-1360 or visit www.cityoffargo.com/health.

Free Community Walking Program

If you're ready for spring and itching to start feeling good about your health, join Walk This Way. The community walking program will help you get out and get walking, and expose you to the various trails and places to walk throughout the Fargo-Moorhead area. 15 different walks are scheduled this spring from March 20 through May 15.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, current physical activity recommendations for adults are to engage in moderate-intensity physical activities for at least 30 minutes on 5 or more days of the week. Walking is a great way to be physically active and helps reduce the risk of chronic disease. Participants of Walk This Way will have an opportunity to be entered into a prize drawing at each walking event. Individuals who attend 5 or more walks will be entered into a grand prize drawing; watch for more specific prize information to come!
