Item 2 involved discussions about increasing stipends for the public art possibilities program that is part of the Public Arts Master Plan that is currently in process. Item 3 involved additional options.

Ms. Preston moved to approve Item 1 which states to continue with the City Hall curating program, reserving $5,000 for the curating services and $3,000 for purchase and table Items 2 and 3 to be discussed at the next meeting. Ms. Crutchfield presented the 2017 budget process, indicating that in July the Mayor and Finance Director receive department budget requests. RE: 2016 Program Recommendations

---

At the June Arts and Culture Commission (ACC) meeting, the Commission discussed three programs for 2016. This included the city hall curating program, the public arts possibilities program and the public arts program. The ACC voted to approve the city hall curating program and tabled the other two discussions.

Below is background and recent history to aid in this discussion. In 2015, the City Commission budgeted $20,000 for the 2016 public art program. This is equal to the amount allocated for the 2015 public art program. Last year the program was distributed among City Hall Curating program and a request for public art projects. $15,000 was allocated for Public Art Projects. Through a Request for Proposals (RFP) process two projects were funded, the Shakespeare Fest (Winter Arts Festival) ($5,000) and the Children's Legacy Foundation, Madison Skatepark Brad Bachmeier sculpture ($10,000).

For 2016, staff suggests allocating the budget among three programs:

- 1) City hall curating (which was voted on in the June meeting) = $8,000;
- 2) Public Arts Possibilities Program, which is currently within the scope of the Public Arts Master Plan to be administered by Forecast Public Art late Summer and early Fall 2016) = $7,000;
- 3) Request for Proposals for Public Art Projects (RFP) = $5,000.

In early 2016, within the scope of work for the Public Arts Master Plan that is currently in process, Forecast Public Art has been contracted to administer a Public Arts Possibilities Program. This program was initially suggested to be $5,000 but at last month's meeting there was discussion to raise this to $7,000. (With either amount the suggested stipend for artist or artist team is $500.) Jack Becker, Forecast Public Art will be available at the meeting to further discuss this program.

After further consideration and evaluation of the success of last year's RFP process for projects, staff suggests to repeat last year's activities and issue a 2016 Request for Public Art Projects. By repeating the 2015 RFP process it offers additional consistency to the work of the commission and for the community. It also allows for additional flexibility and freedom for established artists or community programs to continue to participate in their own ways. The reduction from $15,000 to $5,000 suggests that perhaps only one project is allocated funding. Last year, there were six great proposals, and two were funded.

Attached, you will find a detailed explanation of the Public Art Possibilities Program, and the 2015 Request for Public Art Projects.

Recommendation: To approve the allocation of $7,000 for the public arts possibilities program and approve the allocation of $5,000 for the Request for Proposals for public art projects.

PUBLIC ART POSSIBILITIES | FAQ

WHAT?

Public Art Possibilities is a collection of ideas for public art projects in Fargo generated by artists from the region. Funded by the City of Fargo and facilitated by Forecast Public Art, the City's public art planning consultant, it's an invitation to reimagine Fargo's public realm and civic life. This project asks creative types what ideas they have—without limitations—and without promising that any of these ideas will actually be realized.

*What do you see as most important to the city and people of Fargo?
How do you envision Fargo's future? What would you like to add to it?
Which sites and spaces in the city would you like to engage and evolve? How?*

WHO?

Open to community builders + organizers, cultural leaders, filmmakers, historians, musicians, neighborhood stakeholders, painters, photographers, place makers, poets, potters, writers - anyone interested and invested in art in the public realm and our common life in Fargo.

Up to 14 ideas will be selected from the pool of responses to the Public Art Possibilities Call For Ideas. Selected ideas will be represented in a Public Art Possibilities booklet published by Forecast Public Art as a companion to the City of Fargo's public art master plan, and will reveal how community stakeholders and creatives imagine public art—temporary or enduring—in Fargo.

Up to 14 individuals or teams selected to develop their ideas will each receive a stipend of $500. Open to creative in the region, at least half of the selected ideas will be from Fargo residents. Selected ideas will represent a range of artistic media and a range of locations within the city limits of Fargo. Ideas will be evaluated based on innovation and originality and response to a particular context.

WHY?

To facilitate an opportunity for creatives and community stakeholders to identify and interact with the city as a venue for temporary and enduring public art, and to evolve individual and collective thinking about art within the public sphere. Also -

4. To assess the capacity and skill sets of Fargo-based creatives' regarding public art idea development, and determine the level of support and resources needed to initiate and implement projects in the public realm.
5. To surface how the City of Fargo and Arts and Culture Commission can collaborate with creatives to realize public art projects.

Anyone living in the region who is interested and invested in art in the public realm and adding vibrancy to daily life in Fargo—community builders + organizers, cultural leaders, filmmakers, historians, musicians, neighborhood stakeholders, painters, photographers, place makers, poets, potters, writers—can submit ideas.

4. Do I have to attend the September 15 information session to be eligible?

- No! However, during the September 15th session, we will discuss qualities of a strong submission, illuminate considerations for choosing a site and offer an opportunity to connect with other interested community stakeholders and creatives to formulate teams if you would like to develop an idea collaboratively.

5. How do I submit an idea?

- Answer the following questions—150 words maximum for each of the following—and send a document with your responses as an attachment to Kirstin Wiegmann - kirstin@forecastpublicart.org.
- Question 1 | Provide your name, address, and other contact information.
- Question 2 | Introduce your idea and location.
- Question 3 | How/why did you select your site?
- Optional | Attach a sketch of your idea and/or a photograph of your Fargo location.

6. How do I select a site?

- Ultimately, you can choose any site you want. If you need a starting point, you could reflect on where you live, where you work, public places you visit, streets you travel, landmarks you reference, sites where you spend time each week or month or less-noticed spaces. What needs or opportunities would you identify at each site? How have those needs (not) been met? What opportunities do you see?
- Think creatively about what qualifies a site as distinctive and pay attention to sites beyond typical or traditional locations for public art. A goal of this project is to share ideas that could happen in all parts of Fargo.

7. What happens after I submit an idea?

- All submissions will be reviewed by Forecast Public Art to determine which individuals and teams will be selected to participate.
- Forecast Public Art will select up to 14 finalists—individuals or teams—to prepare their ideas for publication.
- Forecast Public Art will offer support and guidance for design development and copy editing of the selected ideas via telephone calls, email or Skype conversations.
- Final versions of all ideas and renderings will be included in the Public Art Possibilities booklet (both print and online). **See below for specific timeline for these activities.*

8. What criteria will Forecast's Curatorial Committee use for selection of participants?

- Unique and innovative ideas surfacing diverse possibilities for public art in Fargo.
- Clarity of submitted idea.
- Thoughtful consideration of selected site, with a goal of diverse locations.
- A minimum of half the ideas are from Fargo residents.

9. Will I be eligible for any compensation?

- Up to 14 finalists—individuals or teams—selected by Forecast's curatorial committee comprised of Forecast Public Art staff will receive stipends to prepare their ideas for publication.
- Stipends will be awarded only to participants selected for publication.
- Participants will receive a stipend of $500.

10. Can I apply more than once?

- Yes, you can submit more than one idea as an individual or team. We suggest you limit your submissions to three ideas.

11. Will more than one of my ideas be considered for inclusion in the Public Art Possibilities booklet?

- Possibly. All ideas will be selected based upon the criteria listed above.

12. Why curate a selection of ideas for the booklet instead of including all submitted ideas?

- We have a limited budget to pay applicants, and need to limit the funding to the best ideas submitted.

13. Who owns the designs after they are finalized?

- Creators will maintain intellectual property rights to their ideas and designs.
- Forecast Public Art will have the right to include visual and written representations of selected projects in print and online publications.
- The City of Fargo will have the right to utilize the projects for educational purposes and media releases.

14. Will my ideas or my team's ideas be realized?

- There is no promise of funding any of the ideas submitted. The goal is to fire up imaginations, raise awareness of the talent in the region, and show people a range of ideas (some of which may not be possible to implement). There will be an effort to distribute the Public Art Possibilities booklet widely and thereby introduce your ideas to a broad audience of Fargo leaders, residents, businesses, and art patrons.
